Education

- B.B.A. in marketing, Florida International University

Personal Note

- “During high school and college, I ran 800 meters as an athlete and enjoyed playing cricket,” Khan says. “I still play it.”

At Acordis International, Rehan Khan believes his effectiveness as a leader is borne from a list of attributes he recites to himself every day. They are commitment, communication, confidence, creative, taking care of clients, can-do attitude, ability to inspire and intuition.

If asked by an apprentice or an aspiring executive what helped make him successful, Khan would also add vision, perseverance and his strengths as a team builder. As a leader, his vision becomes a focal point he communicates to his employees. Perseverance gets a leader and his company through the challenges and keeps morale strong.

“Team building is the most important characteristic for growth and success,” he says. “My team is the biggest success to our organization. We closely work with each other on projects, tasks and implementation. I firmly believe in asking and delegating to achieve results, and my team always assists me in meeting that goal.”

Together, Khan and his team have achieved triple-digit growth in the past two years at Acordis, which provides data, storage and infrastructure management; managed IT; VoIP and wireless; digital signage; virtualization; systems architecture; and IT security. Khan believes his services and his team will be his legacy.

“The best leadership legacies are a consequence of success coming to those who are surrounded by people that want their success to continue,” he says. “As a young, growing company, we are attracting young talent and leaders for tomorrow. I am confident that my legacy will bring a bright leader for tomorrow.”
